

The Osprey

What does an osprey look like?

An osprey has brown upper-body feathers and white feathers on their head and underbody. The female ospreys, however, are 20% larger than the males and have more brown coloring on their chest than the males; this looks like a necklace.

Which one is the female and which one is the male osprey? Color them accordingly!

What does an osprey eat?

Ospreys are carnivores. They mainly eat fish. If they cannot find fish, they will eat other small animals for survival.

Circle which of these foods an osprey would like to eat for dinner!

Where does an osprey live?

Ospreys build their nests on raised platforms. Their favorite nesting sites will have easy access to open, shallow water, allowing them to hunt fish. They can be found near oceans, rivers, lakes, mangroves, coastal wetlands, lagoons, reefs, estuaries, and marshes.
